11 Benjamin Anthony Altamirano, Jr.,

12 Plaintiff,

13 v.

14 County of Pima, et al.,

15 Defendants.
16

No. CV-15-00169-TUC-RM

ORDER

17 Pending before the Court are Defendant City of Tucson's (the "City") Motion for 18 Clarification (Doc. 171), Rule 42(b) Motion for Separate Trial (Doc. 172), and Motion to 19 Order Reply, Oral Argument, or Both (Doc. 178). Plaintiff Benjamin Altamirano filed a 20 Response to the Motion for Clarification. (Doc. 177.) For the following reasons, the 21 Court will grant in part and deny in part the City's Motion for Clarification, will deny as 22 moot the City's Motion for Separate Trial, and will deny the City's Motion to Order 23 Reply, Oral Argument, or Both.

24 I. Background

25 This action arises out of Plaintiff's arrest and year-long confinement on suspicion 26 that he had participated in a home invasion. (Doc. 154 at 1, 3–5.) Plaintiff alleges three 27 counts under 42 U.S.C. § 1983: (1) false arrest and imprisonment; (2) malicious
28 prosecution; and (3) conspiracy. (Doc. 26.) Following the close of discovery, Defendants

1 Pima County and the City filed Motions for Summary Judgment. (Docs. 123, 125.) In an 2 Order dated July 31, 2019, the Court denied Pima County’s Motion for Summary
3 Judgment on all three counts, and granted in part and denied in part the City’s Motion for 4 Summary Judgment. (Doc. 154 at 21.) The Court granted the City’s Motion for Summary
5 Judgment as to Plaintiff’s Monell final policymaker theory of liability, finding “no 6 evidence that [Detective Van Norman’s statements to the grand jury were] a practice or 7 custom of the City, or that Detective Van Norman had policy making authority for the 8 City.” (Id. at 17–18.) The Court also granted the City’s Motion for Summary Judgment as 9 to Plaintiff’s failure-to-train claims. (Id. at 20.)

10 The Court denied the City’s Motion for Summary Judgment as to Plaintiff’s 11 affirmative policy claims, finding that “[t]here are issues of fact raised as to the existence 12 of each alleged policy.” (Id. at 19–20.) The Court determined that Plaintiff had produced 13 sufficient evidence to create a question of fact as to the existence of three alleged 14 policies: (1) a policy that denies parents notice or the opportunity to be present at their 15 child’s interrogation unless the juvenile specifically requests his parents’ presence; (2) a 16 policy to not investigate a juvenile suspect’s mental capacity, I.Q., or cognitive 17 disabilities, unless such a disability is obvious; and (3) a policy that prevented juvenile 18 suspects from calling their parents when subject to interrogation (“Affirmative Policies”).
19 (Id. at 19.) While the Court’s July 31, 2019 Order addressed each of Plaintiff’s theories of 20 liability with respect to the City, it did not explicitly decide summary judgment with 21 respect to City on the three claims in Plaintiff’s Complaint. (Doc. 26 at 13–15.)¹ In other 22 words, the Court did not explicitly link its decision to deny summary judgment on the 23 affirmative policy theory to the 42 U.S.C. § 1983 violations alleged in the Complaint.

24 On August 29, 2019, Pima County filed an interlocutory appeal to the Ninth 25 Circuit Court of Appeals of the Court’s decision on the issue of Pima County’s sovereign 26 immunity. (Doc. 158.) This Court stayed the case as to Pima County pending resolution 27 of that interlocutory appeal. (Doc. 170.) Subsequently, the City filed the two motions that 28 ¹ The Court denied summary judgment on all three claims with respect to Pima County.

 (Doc. 154 at 14-16.)

1 are the subject of this Order. (Docs. 171, 172.) The Court held a status conference on 2 December 11, 2019. (Doc. 176.) At the status conference, the parties informed the Court
3 that Pima County's appeal had been resolved and all issues in the case as to Pima County
4 had been resolved. (Id.) The Ninth Circuit dismissed Pima County's Appeal on January 5 13, 2020. (Doc. 181.) On January 21, 2020, this Court granted a stipulation (Doc. 182) to 6 dismiss Pima County as a defendant in the above-entitled action. (Doc. 183.)
7 Accordingly, the City is the only remaining defendant in the above-entitled action.

8 II. Motion for Separate Trial and Motion to Order Reply, Oral Argument, or 9 Both

10 The Court will deny as moot the City's Rule 42(b) Motion for Separate Trial, as 11 the City is the only remaining defendant in this action. The Court will also deny the 12 City's Motion to Order Reply, Oral Argument, or Both, as the Court finds that the Motion
13 for Clarification is suitable for decision without oral argument and that neither oral 14 argument nor a reply would assist the Court in its resolution of the Motion.

15 III. Motion for Clarification

16 The City seeks clarification of the Court's July 31, 2019 Order on its Motion for 17 Summary Judgment. (Doc. 171.) The Motion for Clarification seeks clarification as to the 18 portion of the City's Motion for Summary Judgment that was denied. (Doc. 154 at 18– 19 21.) Specifically, the Motion for Clarification requests that the Court make explicit its 20 summary judgment decision with respect to Plaintiff's claims of malicious prosecution
21 and conspiracy. (Doc. 171.)

22 The Court has reviewed its July 31, 2019 Order on the City's Motion for Summary
23 Judgment, the underlying summary judgment briefing and exhibits, and the parties' 24 briefing on the Motion for Clarification. The Court determines that it failed to link its 25 decision to deny summary judgment on the affirmative policy theory to the legal 26 violations alleged in the Complaint, and that it must now do so in order to clarify which 27 of Plaintiff's claims against the City remain. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a).

28

1 A. False Arrest and Imprisonment

2 The City does not seek clarification relating to the false arrest and imprisonment 3 claim. (Doc. 171.) The parties do not dispute, and the Court does not find, that denial of 4 summary judgment as to Plaintiff’s affirmative policy theories is inconsistent with denial
5 of summary judgment as to that claim. See Monell v. Dept of Soc. Serv., 436 U.S. 658, 6 690–91 (1978) (§ 1983 actions against local governments may be brought pursuant to 7 alleged constitutional deprivations based on governmental “custom” even if the alleged 8 practice has not been officially condoned.) The potential existence of the affirmative 9 policies raises questions of law and fact related to the false arrest and imprisonment claim 10 that must be decided by a jury.

11 B. Malicious Prosecution

12 The City seeks clarification on the Court’s prior decision relating to the malicious
13 prosecution claim. (Doc. 171.) The City contends that the Court should grant it summary 14 judgment on the malicious prosecution claim because the affirmative policies are 15 unrelated to the prosecution, including the grand jury testimony, against Mr. Altamirano.
16 (Id. at 4.) In other words, any actions taken by the City pursuant to the affirmative 17 policies could not support a malicious prosecution claim because the affirmative policies
18 are limited to the City’s policies and practices relating to juvenile interrogation. (Id. at 2.)
19 Plaintiff opposes the City’s Motion on this issue, contending that the City’s actions
20 leading up to the prosecution caused the prosecution and therefore the City can be found 21 liable for malicious prosecution. (Doc. 177 at 13–14.)

22 Plaintiff’s argument is unavailing because the Court has already held that the City
23 of Tucson officers in this case, including Detective Van Norman, are not final 24 policymakers able to subject the City to municipal liability. (Doc. 154 at 17.) Holding the 25 City or a City official, in this case Detective Van Norman, liable for a malicious 26 prosecution claim would mandate the inference that Detective Van Norman was 27 somehow responsible for the prosecution against Plaintiff. (See Doc. 132 at 11, Doc. 125 28 at 5–6); see also Monell v. Dept of Soc. Serv., 436 U.S. 658, 690–91 (1978) (“[T]he

1 touchstone of the § 1983 action against a government body is an allegation that official 2 policy is responsible for a deprivation of rights protected by the Constitution[.]”² Such a
3 finding would be inconsistent with the Court’s decision on the issue of final policymaker
4 liability. (Doc. 154 at 17–18.) It would also be inconsistent with the nature of a 5 prosecution, which begins with the indictment. Stirone v. United States, 361 U.S. 212, 6 215 (1960) (the Fifth Amendment requires that prosecution be begun by indictment).
7 There is no question that the City did not indict Plaintiff. The cases cited by Plaintiff do 8 not allow the Court to reach a different conclusion. See Galbraith v. County of Santa 9 Clara, 307 F.3d 1119, 1122-23 (9th Cir. 2002) (§ 1983 malicious prosecution claim 10 against County and County employee was based on “policies and practices” pursuant to 11 Monell). The affirmative policies on which the Court denied summary judgment relate to 12 the City’s policies and practices during interrogation of juvenile suspects and are 13 unrelated to the prosecution of a case. Accordingly, the Court clarifies that its July 31,
14 2019 Order (Doc. 154) granted summary judgment in favor of the City as to Plaintiff’s 15 malicious prosecution claim.

16 C. Conspiracy

17 The City also seeks clarification on the Court’s prior decision relating to the 18 conspiracy claim. (Doc. 171.) The City contends that the Court should grant it summary 19 judgment on the conspiracy claim because Detective Van Norman was not a final 20 policymaker capable of entering into an agreement with Pima County that would create a 21 conspiracy between the City and Pima County. (Id. at 3 –4.) Plaintiff opposes the City’s 22 Motion on this issue. (Doc. 177 at 15–16.)

23 As with the malicious prosecution claim, the Court has already held that the City
24 of Tucson officers in this case, including Detective Van Norman, are not final 25 policymakers able to subject the City to municipal liability. (Doc. 154 at 17.) There is no

26 ² Monell goes on to state that “local governments. . . may be sued for constitutional 27 deprivations visited pursuant to governmental ‘custom’ even though such a custom has 28 not received formal approval through the body’s official decision making channels.” 436 U.S. at 691. This rule does not meaningfully expand the City’s potential liability as to the malicious prosecution claim because a prosecution cannot be brought pursuant to

1 other evidence in support of the conspiracy claim against the City. (Docs. 171 at 4; 177 at 2 15–16.) Accordingly, the Court clarifies that its July 31, 2019 Order (Doc. 154) granted
3 summary judgment in favor of the City as to Plaintiff’s conspiracy claim.

4 To the extent that the City requests other relief in its Motion for Clarification, that 5 relief is denied.

6 IT IS ORDERED that:

7 (1) Defendant City of Tucson’s Motion for Clarification (Doc. 171) is granted in 8 part and denied in part, as follows:

9 a) The Motion is granted with respect to the City’s request for 10 clarification on Plaintiff’s malicious prosecution and conspiracy claims.
11 The Court clarifies that its July 31, 2019 Order (Doc. 154) granted
12 summary judgment in favor of the City on Plaintiff’s malicious
13 prosecution and conspiracy claims. Plaintiff’s malicious prosecution
14 and conspiracy claims against Defendant City of Tucson are accordingly 15 dismissed.

16 b) The Motion is denied with respect to all other requests for relief.

17 (2) Defendant City of Tucson’s Rule 42(b) Motion for Separate Trial (Doc. 172) is 18 denied as moot.

19 (3) Defendant City of Tucson’s Motion to Order Reply, Oral Argument, or Both 20 (Doc. 178) is denied.
